

The MySpace Lie

- The New Mexico Attorney General's Office reported that 30,000 known sex offenders had personal pages on MySpace.
- A prosecutor with 15 years experience in child sex crimes suggests that 60% of that 30,000 are child sexual predators. That equals 18,000.
- Law enforcement agencies across the country frequently state that by the time a child sexual predator is caught that they will have upwards to 100 victims behind them. They have a success rate in excess of 99%.
- The bottom line -- MySpace hosts personal webpages of men who have between them 1,800,000 victims between the ages of 6 to 13. These are the sexual predators we know about.
- In February of 2009, MSNBC reported that MySpace had identified and removed the pages of 90,000 known sex offenders. Now, we're looking at 5,400,000 victims that are children.

No victim of a crime ever thought they were doing something unsafe!

When users of MySpace, or for that matter any social networking website, set their personal pages to private they are led to believe that they are safe. That's a lie. What follows is the first page, 10 items out of 756,000, of what you will find when you search "Hacking private MySpace pages". As you can see privacy, and consequently safety, do not exist.
